

BARRE DAILY TIMES

Published every week-day afternoon.
 Subscriptions: One year, $3; one month, 25 cents; single copy, 1 cent.
 Frank E. Langley, Publisher.

Entered at the Postoffice at Barre as Second Class Matter.

MONDAY JUNE 8, 1908.

The average daily circulation of the Barre Daily Times for the week ending Saturday was copies, the largest paid circulation of any daily paper in this section.

4,775

It looks as if Taft had copped the coop out in Chicago.

The report from the state laboratory at Burlington to the effect that the aged man who was found dead in his miserable quarters in Montpelier came to his death by natural causes removes some of the lugubrious features of a sad incident. That a crime was not committed is referred to.

NAME THE GUILTY AD!

If The Herald is honest in its desire to improve the morals of its fellow-contemporaries, why not plainly label all the advertising, political or otherwise, it now runs in its own columns as straight reading matter without any distinguishing mark or even cut-off rule?—Barre Times.

The Herald has not the faintest notion of what The Times is driving at. If the contemporary desires to get several people into very acute distress, he may do so by pointing out the advertisements he apparently believes are run in these columns "without any distinguishing mark or even cut-off rule." A hair-lifting time will ensue for someone if the invariable rule of the paper has been transgressed in this respect.—Rutland Herald.

The Times did not go through a file of Herald, but the copy in which appeared the editorial The Times referred to, contained a medical advertisement without marks.

VERMONT'S "BROOKLINE."

Woodstock is getting to be the "Brookline" of Vermont, that is, the Massachusetts Brookline. During the year just past, the grand list of that town was increased by $200,000, making a taxable list of $3,271,820. That, too, with only 699 taxable polls and a total population less than three thousand. Woodstock may thank its hotel accommodations largely for this state of affairs. Granted that it has excellent natural attractions, the people from the cities would not have been attracted there had it not been for the fine hotel facilities. Once drawn to Woodstock, they come often and stay long, leaving temporarily, and sometimes permanently when property is purchased, a considerable amount of money. Property values in town have increased also as the desirability of the town as a summer resort has grown. So trace it all back and you find the actual cause of the town's great gain in taxable property to be its hotel. A good hotel is a very great asset for any community, as Waterbury, for instance, is finding it to be.

GENTLEMANLY CADETS.

The cadets of Norwich university have demonstrated that a crowd of college students can go out on a jaunt and deport themselves in a gentlemanly manner. On their present commencement "bike" into the town of Randolph and back to Northfield, the Norwich boys have won general approbation for their conduct, the people along the line of march having nothing but good words to say for them. There is always a temptation on an occasion of this sort to "break loose" as the boys would say, and give themselves over to a good time regardless of the rights and immunities of the public. No doubt the military training of the young men and the military routine of their march has something to do about keeping the boys in the path of decency, but even that cannot take them from them all the credit for the self-restraint that they have manifested on this march. They have illustrated by their actions that definition of a "gentleman" which the president of another Vermont institution, President Buckham of the university of Vermont, once gave before his own students, which was, "A gentleman is one who is more thoughtful of others' feelings than of his own rights, and more thoughtful of others' rights than of his own feelings." In so conducting themselves they are reflecting credit on their alma mater and their institution ought to be a distinct gain thereby. Praise for the Norwich cadets.

A Geographical Slip.

One of the famous American dramatists wrote an Egyptian play and had the English officers of the khedive slip out of a reception "to paddle across the Nile to the island of Elephantine," returning in an hour's time. Elephantine island is opposite Assuan, at the first cataract, 600 miles from Cairo. But the play went in this country and in England.

New York's Temperature.

Meteorological records for forty years show that the mean temperature in New York city is 54.6, and this is made up between the extremes of 6 below and 101 above zero.

Singing Cure.

The suggestion that singing may be used in the fight against pulmonary tuberculosis is an interesting one, says the London Hospital, and is a further instance of the therapeutic value of hygienic measures which is so large an item in the current professional creed.

Of course we have a make-to-order department. It helps to demonstrate the goodness and the virtues of our Ready-to-wear Clothing and there are still some men who prefer the good old way.

SPECIAL.

Few patterns made to order reduced in price 20 to 40 per cent. A few of these Panama Hats left at $3.95. These are $5.00 value. Watch for our sale of Fancy Hosiery Thursday.

INDUSTRIAL EDUCATION.

International Typographical Union Starts a School.

Trades unions must take up sooner or later the question of industrial education. The International Typographical union has had a "commission on supplemental trade education" for some time, and that commission has devised a plan to overcome the disabilities imposed on the men working at that trade by the lack of an apprenticeship system. The commission says:

"The need of supplemental trade education is admitted by all thoughtful students of our industrial life. This is of no avail if the workers themselves are not aroused or encouraged to bring about a better state of affairs."

The plan adopted by the I. T. U. follows the "correspondence school" method, for the reason that it was impracticable to establish a school in every city or town, and a course of thirty-seven lessons has been prepared. These lessons begin at the unit of the printed page, the individual letter. The student is not only informed as to the history and uses of letters, but is given instruction in the formation of them. From that he is taken through a course of design and given instruction in the harmony of color. Then comes a thorough drilling in advertisement and job composition, imposition and other practical features, as well as information about platemaking and paper which will prove of great value to printers. The methods adopted differ from any heretofore employed in trade education in this field. As a rule, an apprentice has to rely on his powers of observation—see how others do their work and copy it—or is told to do this or that without explanation as to why he should do so. This dogmatic method makes memory work overtime, but does not stimulate thought and is therefore not so conducive to the development of originality as might be desired. The union's course tells the "how" and the "why" of all the elements that enter into what may be called "good printing."

There is no thought of profit in connection with the course. It is offered at approximately cost price ($20), but in order to encourage study of this character the International Typographical union will award a rebate of $5 to each student who pursues the course with diligence and a fair degree of intelligence. Some local unions supplement this, and employers have also intimated their intention to encourage their employees to take the course, which is under the direction of the I. T. U. commission, 120 Sherman street, Chicago.

The Chinese Dentist.

The position of the Chinese dentist is not very lofty among his countrymen. He is regarded as halfway in social importance between a barber

RANDOLPH

Hill Lockwood of Springfield was the guest of Mrs. Lizzie Smith on Saturday.

Herman Perry from Boston, was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Cassidy over Sunday.

The young child of Mrs. James Wilcox is very ill, but it is not yet known what the disease is.

Carl Green of Lowell, Mass., a former student in the High school, is a guest of Dr. O. V. Green.

Mrs. Moseley of Northfield was in town on Saturday for a short time, leaving here in the afternoon for South Royalton.

Mrs. Frank Weyman and her son, went to Brattleboro, on Saturday, for a permanent residence. Mr. Weyman having gone last Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Clark left here on Saturday for Danvers, Mass., where they will visit their son Dr. Harry Clark. Before their return, they will visit other relatives in the vicinity.

An audience of about 400 gathered in the Bethany Church on Sunday evening for the baccalaureate sermon delivered by Rev. F. T. Wells of Randolph Center, before the graduating class of the High school.

The Randolph Women's Literary Club, held a delightful meeting on Saturday afternoon at "Stoneleigh" the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Moulton, where they were entertained by Mrs. Moulton and Miss Moulton her daughter.

About twenty witnesses were summoned to Chelsea, from this vicinity on Saturday to testify in regard to the life and conduct of Sherman Garfield who lives out about three miles on the road to East Brattleboro, and who is charged with assaulting one Palmer, who was at work for him last Thursday and who was injured it is thought seriously and is now at the Randolph Sanatorium. Nothing definite is yet known of the result but it is understood that the grand jury found three indictments against him.

BETHEL

The death of Mrs. George Berry occurred in Charlestown, Mass., on Wednesday June 3rd, aged 70 years. Mr. and Mrs. Berry had been residents of this town every summer for more than 25 years, and while people knew her health was delicate her death came as a shock to the community in which she had lived so long. Mrs. Berry was formerly Miss Henrietta Harris, from Massachusetts, and Mr. Berry was the uncle of Mrs. R. M. Chase of this village. The funeral was in Charlestown, Mass. and the interment in Auburn cemetery. Mrs. Chase went to Charlestown Wednesday.

The Vienna Derby.

The racing season at Vienna ends with the Derby week, from the middle of the last week in May to the middle of the first week in June. It comprises seven race days in the Freudenau, the great fower corso, a horse show and the equippage competition.

Persian Newspapers.

Persian newspapers are reproduced from handwriting by lithography, no types being used.

Garibaldi.

Garibaldi died on the island of Capri June 2, 1882, at the age of seventy-five. Garibaldi made no fame as a writer. After 1870 he wrote two or three novels, but they were very mediocre productions and created but little stir in the world.

Snakes.

When the snake sheds its skin, which occurs frequently, the skin of the eye comes off with the rest. Translucent in most parts, the skin over the snake's eye is perfectly transparent.

Cold and Chloroform.

It was found that an apparatus for killing animals with chloroform in England would get work in India, because the high temperature prevented the concentration of the chloroform vapor. That this was the case was proved by the fact that by placing ice in the box the animals were readily killed.

Jerusalem.

Jerusalem is now nothing but a shadow of the magnificent city of ancient times. It is about three miles in circumference and is situated on a rocky mountain.

Poison.

When you purchase a bottle of poison run a brass headed tack into the top of the cork. It serves as a marker, and children will be more cautious of the marked bottles. If the label comes off or is discolored the marker remains as a skull and crossbones warning.

OPEN MONDAY EVENINGS FROM 7 TO 8 O'CLOCK.

JINGLES AND JESTS

Even Here.
 Good St. Peter turned around—
 Blockade at the gate.
 "What's the trouble?" rang the cry.
 And quick the good saint did reply:
 "Pretty maiden can't get by—
 In hat of nineteen eight."—
 Detroit Tribune.

The Kind to Serve.
 Experimenter (dogmatically) — You have to handle these children with gloves.
 Tired Teacher (dipantly) — Kid gloves?—Punch.

The Wheat Speculator.
 At the "open board" in golden grain
 He plunged with his little might and main.
 And now he is making frequent "calls"
 At the shop with the sign of the golden balls.
 —Chicago Record-Herald.

The Height of Hospitality.
 Hewitt—I suppose that when your uncle comes to New York you will see that he is properly entertained?
 Jewett—Yes; he shall have everything that his money will buy.—Puck.

The Very Worst.
 False rumors are annoying.
 But hotel keepers say
 The most annoying roomers
 Are those who do not pay.
 —New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Probably.
 Howell—When you are in Rome you should do as the Romans do.
 Powell—But the Romans must have done everybody by this time.—Brooklyn Life.

The Well Meaning Person.
 When he works hard with hand or pen,
 Though his intentions seem so good,
 It means that several other men
 Must work to straighten his work out.
 —Harvard Lampoon.

Merely a Repeater.
 Gerald—You are the only girl I have ever loved.
 Geraldine—Do you expect me to marry
 a phonograph?—Wasp.

Yet Nobody Believes It.
 Fame doth still remain a bubble.
 Laurels mean but tail and trouble.
 Happy he who lives forgot.
 He is much the better off.
 —Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The Ruling Passion.
 Shipwrecked Mariner—A sail! A sail at last!
 Fair One in Distress (weakly)—
 What are they advertising?—Puck.

Alas!
 This world, alas,
 Is filled with kickers,
 Who scorn the race
 And hunt the stickers.
 —Minneapolis Journal.

It Must Have Been Quiet.
 "Yes; everybody of any consequence in town was there."
 "What did you do for things to talk about?"—Browning's Magazine.

A Summer Trap.
 Off when Cupid's after hearts
 He discards his bow and darts,
 Finding that a net will do
 Vix, a hammock built for two.
 —Philadelphia Press.

The New Fashions.
 Spirit—Why can't I get in?
 St. Peter—No room; the ladies are all wearing wide halos this year—
 Judge.

Evolution.
 Mary had a little hat,
 Not bigger than a whooper.
 Mary soon got rid of that—
 Her present hat's a whooper.
 —New York Sun.

Similar, but Different.
 Bleeker—I suppose your wife is like mine—always wants the last word?
 Meeker—No; mine always gives me
 the last word.—Detroit Tribune.

A Slight Difficulty.
 She is an heiress fair to see.
 Her joy we hasten to announce.
 She was a little long, which she
 Can never properly pronounce.
 —Town Topics.

A Killing Compliment.
 He—You are a perfect duck of a girl.
 She—Now you are making game of me.—San Francisco Examiner.

With a Photograph.
 This picture isn't very good.
 But, by the bye, perchance I should
 In justice to the artist add
 The subject, too, was pretty bad.
 —Pittsburg Post.

Her Ghost.
 She heard a ghost the other night
 Go gliding through her room.
 She seized a match and struck a light
 And chased it with a broom.
 She felt the specter later on
 Go hopping o'er her bed.
 And now her courage all was gone.
 She simply hid her head.
 She saw the thing by light of day.
 It scampered through the house,
 And now she fainted dead away—
 The creature was a mouse.
 —New York Press.

Only the Style.
 "The fashionable beauty sitting yonder has a swelled head."
 "That's because it is all puffed up."
 —Baltimore American.

Ambiguous.
 "Are you looking for trouble?"
 "I'm looking for my wife."
 —Cleveland Plain Dealer.

So Very Cute.
 She held him in the hollow of her hand.
 His admiration of it made him simple.
 "Hollow of her hand," you understand.
 Was just a most entrancing little dimple.
 —Catholic Standard and Times.

Deeper Yet.
 Towns—I suppose he's deep in love's young dream.
 Browne—No; he's past that stage.
 He's troubled with insomnia now—
 Town Topics.

A Friendly Tip.
 If you would win a woman fair,
 Hand her a little flattery.
 'Tis far more effective than
 Plain assault and battery.
 —Detroit Tribune.

Her Little Girl.
 "Is your little girl old enough to be a companion to you?"
 "Oh, yes. She already plays a fair game of bridge."—New York Life.

Just a Way They Have.
 Lives of millionaires oft remind us
 They can take of chance a lump
 And by a single fling blind us
 To the liquid truth the public
 —Chicago News.

These Imported Goods.
 "Is Bilgins' credulous?"
 "Extremely. He believes every word he reads on a wine bottle or a sardine can."—Washington Star.

An Important Question.
 I have two feet. My cat, with four.
 Runs twice as fast as I.
 Yet twice as slow I find I go
 On all fours. Tell me why.
 —Woman's Home Companion.

Noncommittal.
 "Does this automobile racing business pay?"
 "Well, it raises the dust."—Baltimore
 American.

Wise Precaution.
 "My dear professor, why have you a hole in the front of your umbrella?"
 "Because I like to know whether it is raining or not."—Shutok.

What's In a Name?
 He's tight as any summer breeze.
 Two hundred pounds she'll weigh.
 His given name is Hercules.
 Her given name is Fay.
 —Philadelphia Press.

The Wise Woman's Way.
 "Does your husband ever scold when you want a new hat?"
 "No; he never knows anything about it until after I get it."—London Opinion.

First Essential.
 Nan—What is the first thing you have to learn in playing golf?
 Fan—The accent.—Chicago Tribune.

The Rural Observer.
 Though marriage is a lottery
 An' lottery is wicked,
 There's no old maid so good but she
 Would like to get a ticket.
 —Denver News-Times.

Repeats.
 He—Tell me, dear, why are you like
 a table?
 She—Why?
 He—Because you're woo'd.
 She (indignantly)—No; because I'm board.—Yale Record.

Measuring Time.
 Just when the day became divided Into hours is not known, nor is the process explained. The Greeks and Romans measured time by the water glass and the sundial. The hourglass, filled with sand, was the outgrowth of these vessels, from which the water dripped through tiny openings.
